CHECKLIST: IMPROVING COMMITTEE RELATIONS

To develop healthy working relationships between committee members, residents and park operators should:

- » establish clear boundaries of committee functions
- » have clear, written role descriptions, policies and procedures
- » establish clear lines of communication between committee members, residents and park operators
- » keep residents well informed of committee decisions and actions
- » ensure integrity and transparency in dealing with residents and park operators
- » be supportive of committee members
- » have a shared vision and purpose and stick to decisions made by the committee.
